ST. LOUIS, WEDNESDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 7, 1887.

CRAWFORD'S!

A few notes from our fashion writer on Fall Millinery.

NEW YORK, September 4th.—There's nothing startling about the new shapes, but they're exceedingly stylish and pretty, and the most becoming that have been seen in many seasons. The best shapes shown at the leading New York establishments have both sides rolled, the left much higher than the right, or both almost reaching the top of the crown. One, entirely new, fitting close in the back, shows a high roll and a drooping front, and is very stylish. There are several new turban shapes in both felt and silk beaver, the latter will be the first choice for dress the coming season. The new glace ribbons and feathers are beautiful. The sailor, which is the most fashionable hat for young ladies' fall wear, is beautifully trimmed with a new bow, which looks simple enough with its 7 or 8 stiff loops and knotted center, but which proves a snare and delusion to the novice. A stylish finish to the sailor is a bow on the back, with both loops and ends standing straight up. A red felt sailor on a very pretty girl at Central Park yesterday, had a bristling bow of red watered ribbon in front, and two black wings in the back. The dress was red, with a deep border of black moire silk about the foot of the front breadth.

"Cock plumes and glace tips will be very much worn, and jet wings and ornaments are without an end."

Our head milliner has just returned from the East, where she has purchased a full line of everything that is new and elegant in hats and bonnets. The new felt sailors for young ladies, the noblest hat out, all colors, $2. and the finest and first stock of glace ribbons, tips and wings ever seen in town, is now with

THE CRANKS SORRY

THAT THE BROWNS WILL BE IN THE ASSOCIATION ANOTHER YEAR.

A Superior Article of Base Ball Demanded In St. Louis—News of the Diamond—How The Bard Is Treated—Lucky B.'s Winings and Full Record—The English Derby—John Wynn Apologizes—Sporting News and Notes—Base Ball Chat.

The action of the American Association at meeting Monday in New York, by which it adopted the percentage system, was universally regretted by base ball enthusiasts in St. Louis. The news, although not received with much surprise, was received with evident regret by many, and with positive disgust by some few prominent cases. While the adoption of the percentage system will undoubtedly prove a regular bonanza for President Von der Ahe, so far as victory in games and financial betterment are concerned, it will be particularly hard on the sport-loving fraternity in St. Louis.

The Association will, next year, no doubt, be made up of the very same clubs composing it this year, and the pennant race will be a repetition of what it has been all along. One well-known crank, who knows every player and manager in the League and Association, said:

"This percentage is going to fill Chris' pockets with money, but it isn't going to do us any good. We are tired of seeing the old weakener year in and year out trying to struggle through games with the Browns, and this business of Monday ties us down for another year at least. Mind, I ain't saying a word against Von der Ahe for doing what he has done because, financially, he has done better than if he went into the League. I'm only kicking because I can't see the Browns in a class of ball players to whom they might really be a menace."

Mr. Armstrong, who has decided up the question with special reference to the Browns and the League, said: "This adoption of the percentage system practically knocks in the head all prospects of the realization of the grand twelve-club league scheme. On the other hand, the Browns go into the League. In the League the Browns would make that race one of the greatest events or stories of the year, and would add to the interest of sport. They would elevate and improve the League by infusing into it an entirely new spirit and manner of base ball, and the great Leaguers would be compelled to work enough on the Browns to make the thing interesting. The adoption of the percentage system has made my eyes bleed."

Of course there are a few Association cranks who are pleased with the result and the prospect of a pennant race, but they will be unable to offset the sentiment on the other side.

They Lost Another.

The St. Louis champions opened a series of games yesterday with the Brooklynites at Brooklyn, and signalized the opening by being defeated. Cannisters and Terry were the masters of ceremonies, and it was Terry's great work which won the game. The champions scored 8 runs, 9 hits and 5 errors, and the Brooklynites 8 runs, 12 hits and 7 errors. Ferguson um-

Detroit Gets the Battery.

The Arbitration Committee met yesterday at Philadelphia to settle the Beatin-Kinaw squabble. Cincinnati showed that it had a contract with these players dated July 29 and Detroit showed that its contract was of a prior date. The committee decided in favor of Detroit, who now have the Allentown battery unconditionally.

Clips and Chips.

Titicomb is said to resemble Twitchell of Detroit for uncertainty.

Twelve years ago Ward was getting $4 a month. Now he gets that in two games.

The Athletics are negotiating with Carter, and the Browns are negotiating with Yerell, and secured he will occupy first base next season.

The minor leagues are rapidly going to pieces. Even the strong International League has lost its grip on the game. The Browns, 424, Lyon, 416; Orr and Hart, 412 each.

There are grave fears entertained that the highly popular team will be permanent, and that it may not be as serious as supposed, but it is safe to say that the king of all left-handed pitchers will not be able to do much steady work in days gone by.

Doscher has had a mask made especially for him. It has a piece fitted to cover his throat. The wires project out from the front of the mask, and are strong and steady. He doesn't like to wear a mask, but he has been bandaged and battered so much that he had to do it.

After the Toronto-Rochester game in Toronto Saturday, it was learned that Rochester had concluded the sale of three of its players, Vining, Parsons and Moore, to the Browns. These were considered the best men Rochester had. Vining was catcher, Parsons pitcher and McGonee third base. They were all good bats.

William R. Yendell, partner of William Sullivan and Meat Inspector William Sullivan, purchased two grand stand tickets for the home Detroit game yesterday afternoon, at Detroit. The game was called on account of rain after the third inning, and the two men who had the tickets, Mr. Yendell and Sullivan presented their tickets, but were refused admission because the tickets, as they were told, were good only July 26. The two men were admitted, however, and the words were printed across their faces: "Good for game 17." Yendell asked the gate-keeper if this was not a good ticket, and he was told "no." The gate-keeper said "yes," but it was a post-season game, and he refused to accept the ticket. Mr. Yendell and Sullivan had to fight their way into the stadium.

Pitther Smith of Baltimore was injured by being hit with the ball in the arm during yesterday's game with Cincinnati. Gardner took him to the hospital.

O. P. Caylor seems to be unpopular in New York. If there is any one spot on earth where O. P. Caylor is not unpopular the public would be surprised to find it.

When the Browns beat the Chicago last fall President Sterns of Detroit telegraphed all to President Von der Ahe: "Congratulate our boys on their victory over the Chicago last fall. And it certainly seems as though Sterns was right."

Begging with the January thaw, the amateur who has all skin under certain aye, begin to "organize" and continue to organize until they are frozen out by the winter winds. Thus are the bad players of the future made.

Hadbourne, Boston's star pitcher, gave Philadelphia sixteen hits yesterday, and after giving up four runs, he will be at work soon, nevertheless. The great pitcher was charged with intentional bad work on account of being jealous of Kelly.

THE BARD.

Care and Expense Demanded by a Sick Horse.

New York Correspondence Philadelphia Press.

I went down to the Monmouth Park Race Track to-day to have a look at A. J. Cassatt's famous race horse, The Bard, who has been close to death, impossible without closing his eyes forever. He is mending now, and Trainer Higgins, who is in charge of the stable, told me that unless blood-poisoning sets in The Bard will take his old place at the head of the Cassatt stables. The abscess has been lanced and is apparently healing; but, of course, there is still danger that it might run into his blood and thus poison him. The light-colored coat of the horse, which he wears, has been passed away, and the doctor said that it is a tonic consisting of quinine, iron and gentian. He takes almost nothing by mouth, day and night. His nature is almost normal at 100%, and his pulse seldom goes above 45, while from 42 to 45 is the average of a thoroughbred race horse.

After recent tragic appearances, it is really marvelous that people can be ready to back Friar's Bard for the next Derby at 100%.

He is destined to be a champion, and the pences of principal of the public schools.

The indications for twenty-four hours, commencing at 3 p. m., to-day, for Missouri are cooler, fair weather; light to fresh northerly winds, shifting to southeasterly.

The greatest American Exposition opens to-night.

IGNATIUS DONNELLY wants to overload BACON with modesty.

The result of the French mobilization will not help BISMARCK'S rheumatic twinges.

It is suspected that C. P. HUNTINGTON and JAKE SHARP have not wholly retired from journalism.

The people of St. Louis owe it to the city and to themselves to make the opening night of the Exposition memorable for a big attendance.

HARVARD threatens to banish draw-poker from its classic precincts. When this happens, the Harvard graduates will not go forth with such winning qualities.

It is not true that TUTTLE bid himself in a hole and died of silence and obscurity. He is still alive, but has shrunk away to very insignificant proportions.

Both political partie now claim Indiana, but neither party is claiming the Indians Kuklux who are still committing outrages under the name of "White Caps."

MRS. LANGTRY has been betting on horse races and has come out ahead. This is at least a partial offset against the social ostracism which she encountered at Long Branch.

WITH the opening of the Exposition to-night, the festival season of St. Louis for 1887 begins. No other city can hope to devise such a series of aggregated attractions.

THE London Telegraph says there has not been a bank failure in China for 900 years. This shows how a meager diet of rice and rats will keep a nation in the back-ground.

LONG-HEADED Frenchmen don't want to rush into war till BISMARCK's rheumatism, KING WILLIAM's deafness and VON MOLTKE'S old age have time to accomplish more decisive results.

GEN. BUTLER says that he "knows a great deal about parties," but it is equally true that parties know a great deal about Butler, and that is why BENJAMIN is a private citizen to-day.

GEN. BUTLER is not too old to play practical jokes; and doubtless he heartily enjoys the ease with which he foisted some good people with his humorous suggestions about the surplus.

DR. MCGLYNN insists that politics is a religion; but he should say no more on this subject till he shall acquire some experience in soliciting votes among the back-alley toughs and bar-room gangs.

THE American people will never give substantial encouragement to any movement that squints at a union Church and State. This fact is a sort of stumbling block in the path of our Prohibitionists.

A MINISTER of the gospel who openly confesses that he used to stuff ballot-boxes ought to find it a little embarrassing in attempting to convert a respectable sinner who is too honest and honorable to engage in such work.

MR. JOHN C. NEW says that BLAINE is "the Republican Jonah." This statement is probably true, but it will not prevent BLAINE's renomination. The Republican party ceased to display the wisdom of the serpent some time ago.

QUEEN VICTORIA will confer the order of knighthood upon Dr. MACKENZIE for cutting out a small bit of the Crown Prince's throat. The road to titles and honors may be rough and rugged, but determined people are still able to travel it.

THE Government's vacuum-boiling experiments with sorghum cane at Fort Scott are pronounced a great success, 104 pounds of sugar and 12 gallons of syrup having been obtained from a ton of cane. The economical value of this result will be immense, notwithstanding the fact that beet sugar has become "dirt cheap" in Europe from over-production, and the governments over there are considering the advisability of a general discontinuance of the bounties heretofore paid to stimulate production.

In reference to the next National Republican Convention, the Globe-Democrat thinks that there is "nothing definite in the case except a general desire to 'secure a candidate with a clear record and definite winning qualities.' This may be a sly dig at BLAINE, but it cannot avail. He will be renominated, and if his record is against him, it will have to get out of his way.

MR. O. B. BUNCE, the literary adviser of DR. APPLETON & Co., in a letter to the New York World, is inclined to the belief that SHAKESPEARE's plays were written by "various young men of the period." Assuming this to be true, it is singular that young gentlemen of such brilliant promise should never have been heard of in after life.

THE dog-days have passed and HENRY GEORGE and DR. McGLYNN will hardly be able to muster the usual number of people in support of their fanciful crusade. The cool winds of autumn will banish from many heads the grotesque illusions of the new knight-errantry imbibed during the confusing midsummer heat.

Coming From Iowa.

The Iowa Veterans have entered into a contract with the Wabash Western to bring them to the Encampment. Three special trains will leave Des Moines for St. Louis Monday morning, arriving here early afternoon. The Wabash will run a special train and will come in force, C. B. Adams goes West over the road to-morrow night to meet the train to-morrow morning. All freight will be side tracked until the Grand Army trains go through. The Iowans will be taken to the foot of Carr street whence they will march to their camp.

CHURCHILL AND THE TORIES.

Churchill's quarrel with the Tories goes on merrily. He has at last succeeded in finding a chairman for his meeting at Whitchurch in 28, Sir Charles Elliott. Meanwhile local politicians are doing their best to prevent the meeting being a success. Sir Charles Legard has written to the paper saying: "All true Tories and Unionists must now decide whether they will follow the wild and erratic leadership of Edward Randolph Churchill or remain loyal to Salmon P. Chase." This means that those who are to attend the Whitchurch meeting will brand themselves in the eyes of Legard, and his friends as disloyal.

A LIBERAL GAIN.

The chief interest of the Liberal gathering at Alexandria Palace yesterday was the definite adoption of the Gladstonian policy by F. W. Maude, who has just resigned the Secretarieship of the Liberal-Union.

Like Trevelyan, Maude made Gladstone's Commission the bridge for returning to the Liberal fold.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, September 7.—The Times is the only paper which contains the invitation to Gladstone to be present at the Centennial celebration in Philadelphia and Mr. Gladstone's declination. This is accompanied by a letter conveying Mr. Childs' assurance of unbound hospitality, not only in Philadelphia, but throughout the Union, and declaring that Gladstone would be entertained as no man has been since Lafayette's visit. The Times comments on its usual bitter spirit on this, and regards the selection of Gladstone as a wise one.
